

Eulogy Air

Eulogy Air, Run The Enemy's third single, is a song about symbolism and spirituality, and the joy of remembrance.

The floating of a feather, coming to rest at your feet, signifies to some people a connection to a guardian Angel, a lost relative watching over them.

In late 2023 the band wrote a song exploring the various symbols in everyday life that have spiritual value to those suffering loss. "The bark upon a willow, the fold upon a pillow, the foam against the tide, you'll see me some time." The song invites the listener to remember a lost loved one through these symbols: "Sing for me this Eulogy, Take the lead and harmony....Whenever you sing now, I'll be there."

Beginning with a sombre, funereal church organ, and sparse, haunting, post-punk guitar, the song builds to a euphoric, anthemic crescendo of festival-pleasing proportions. Mourn through celebration.

The song was recorded at Skyline Studios in the UK. Under the watchful eye of producer Jez Larder, the song was recorded in one take, with some delicate lead guitar work in the verses added later as an enhancement.

Whilst searching for artwork to represent the song, the band discovered the beautiful and fitting "White Feather floating on a pond" by the exceptionally talented wildlife photographer Mia McPherson (<https://www.onthewingphotography.com/wings/about/>). With the addition of the band name and song title, the release was complete and was sent out to all streaming platforms on July 26th 2024

<https://open.spotify.com/track/6O9J4D97RB1AScC2JU5U3E?si=949694afb4994a0b>

Eulogy Air Lyrics

The next stop is mine
You'll see me some time
I'm the bark upon a willow
The fold upon a pillow
The foam amongst the tide
You'll see me some time

Maybe next year not this
I'm a bit hit and miss
I'm the changes in the weather
The floating of a feather
The red stain of your wine
You'll see me some
Time
See me some

Time

Sing for me this Eulogy
Take the lead and harmony
Open your lungs now
Swallow the air
Whenever you sing now
Sing now sing now sing now
I'll be there

The next stop is mine
You'll see me some time
I'm the bark upon a willow
The fold upon a pillow
The foam amongst the tide
You'll see me some time

Maybe next year not this
I'm a bit hit and miss
I'm the changes in the weather
The floating of a feather
The red stain of your wine
You'll see me some

Time
See me some
Time

Sing for me this Eulogy
Take the lead and harmony
Open your lungs now
Swallow the air
Whenever you sing now
Sing now sing now sing now
I'll be there
Eulogy air

So come on and sing now
Sing now sing now sing now
Whenever you sing now
Sing now sing now sing now
I'll be there
Eulogy air

So come on and sing now